TLSS Partner Adam Krauss will be speaking at the Climate Change Symposium in Philadelphia on September 6, 2018. Krauss will be one of three attorneys participating on the panel: "The Insurance Implications of Climate Change and Coverage". He concentrates his practice in environmental and toxic tort insurance coverage areas, and has litigated many high profile insurance coverage disputes on a national level.

The Symposium has been jointly organized by the Emerging & Environmental Claims Manager Association (EECMA) and The Association of Insurance & Reinsurance Run-Off Companies (AIRROC). Established in December 2004, AIRROC's membership includes companies with discontinued lines of business that are in voluntary run-off, and those under a regulatory order or in receivership, all of who have common issues and concerns.
