Hillard M. Sterling to Speak at PRMA Annual Summit on Cyber Hygiene

TLSS Senior Trial Counsel Hillard M. Sterling will be a featured panelist at Private Risk Management Association's upcoming 2018 Annual Summit.

The Summit will take place in Oakbrook, IL from November 4-6, 2018. Sterling will be a panelist for a session titled, "What is Your Cyber Hygiene?" which will include cybersecurity, risk management and insurance experts discussing the dangers that we continue to face. The session will discuss a wide range of topics, including social engineering, privacy theft, criminal cyber activity, and state-sponsored cyber-attacks. The session is designed to help advisors and their high net worth clients take proactive steps to minimize the risk of loss and improve their "cyber hygiene."

The Private Risk Management Association (PRMA) is a nonprofit that brings together insurance leaders and influencers to identify current industry developments, identify and predict trends, and develop solutions. PRMA includes prestigious companies, scientists, security experts, financial advisors and even restoration artisans to keep ahead of the evolving insurance industry to better serve high net worth clientele.

Sterling is a commercial litigator and trial lawyer with thirty years of experience bringing cases to successful resolutions through settlement, judgment, and verdict in tribunals across the country. Hillard brings a strategic, creative, and focused approach to his clients' cases and disputes, and a wealth of litigation and trial experience. Hillard has handled professional liability cases, technology system-implementation disputes, cyber matters, privacy cases, defamation claims, intellectual property, and other business disputes representing companies, shareholders and LLC members.
